

GANGS FIGHT ON BOWERY, ONE MAN WILL DIE

Battle of Paul Kellys and Five Pointers Causes Panic of Pedestrians.

After a night of dissipation members of the Paul Kellys gang and the "Five Pointers" clashed at Great Jones street and the Bowery early today. Revolvers and knives were drawn, and one man shot Frank Tricker, of No. 175 Mulberry street, a member of the Paul Kellys, twice, injuring him so badly he will die.

John O'Neill, a young man, of No. 807 Ninth avenue, who happened to be near, was set upon and stabbed six times, being mistaken for another man. As the stabbing was done from behind he cannot identify his assailant. He will recover from the wounds.

The fight occurred when the Bowery was crowded with men and women hurrying to work, and created a panic. The gangs met at Lyon's restaurant just before dawn. All had been drinking, but there was no disturbance until they met again later in "The Folly," a resort at No. 22 East Fourteenth street. A woman known as "Aggie" entered the place, and her preference for Tricker started this row, but "Eddie" "Up Jack" McManus and "Jim" Kelly, a prize-fighter, succeeded in making peace.

To avoid further trouble Tricker left the place with the woman. Five minutes followed by half a dozen "Five Pointers." Seeing trouble coming, Tricker made for the Brighton, a resort in Great Jones street which is run by Paul Kelly and is the headquarters of the Kelly gang.

Before Tricker could reach the saloon with the woman the "Five Pointers" closed in on him. Behind them came half a dozen "Paul Kellys," and in the rough-and-tumble fight several men were knocked down, and then came the weapons.

Tricker had reached the doorway of the Brighton when he was shot. One bullet entering the groin and a second his leg. Three other bullets were fired at him, but went wild.

Tricker fell, but arose to his feet and ran a quarter of a mile, falling in Astor place. The members of the two gangs scattered, but James Porgie, 412 Pearl street, a bartender in Chinatown, who is alleged to be a "Five Pointer," and Harry Fry, of No. 548 East Forty-sixth street, his companion, were arrested.

HE DIED TO JOIN DEAD SWEETHEART

Youth Shot Himself in Riverside Park, and a Letter in His Pocket Told of Death of Girl.

Grief over the death of a sweetheart in Italy is supposed to have been the cause that led to the suicide of Vincenzo Cinque, twenty years old, who died in Roosevelt Hospital early today, after shooting himself in the right temple. At the time of the shooting, late last night, Cinque was in the residence of Charles M. Schwab, Cinque lived at No. 147 West Sixty-fourth street.

Policeman Fitzgerald, of the West Sixty-eighth street station, who had heard the report of the revolver, found Cinque unconscious behind some bushes. At his side was a 32-caliber revolver. There was a bullet wound in his head. An ambulance was summoned from Roosevelt Hospital and Cinque was hurried to the institution.

In Cinque's pocket was found a letter dated at Naples on April 25. It was signed "Florino." The letter contained the news of the death of "Gretchen," who was spoken of as Cinque's sweetheart.

IT WAS TO LAUGH FOR MRS. SCHREIBER.

Woman Who Disciplined Husband for Breaking His Word, Adds Insult to Injury.

George Schreiber, who lives at No. 245 West Forty-second street, went on a trip with a fishing club to which he belongs yesterday. Before he went he promised his wife he would not drink anything. When he got home last night there were such unmistakable signs that Mrs. Schreiber drove him out of the house and on the sidewalk in front proceeded to discipline him. She was mopping up the street with him when a policeman came along and arrested both.

In the West Side Court today, George had to feel his way to the bar as both of his eyes were closed. The side of his face was cut, and he showed other signs of hard treatment. Everytime Mrs. Schreiber spoke to him he scratched on her face, looked at him, burst into peals of laughter, and most everybody in the courtroom did the same thing.

Mrs. Schreiber looked proudly at her work and said she did it because George broke a promise to her. Schreiber admitted that he was too good a drinker to be a member of the fishing club. He said he was a member of the "Sixty-ninth" regiment, conveying the thanks of the President and notifying the men that they will escort the regiment to the Decoration Day parade.

The "Sixty-ninth" Regiment is feeling very proud to-day over the receipt of a letter from President Roosevelt in which he says that when he visited this city before his hunting trip "it was a very genuine pleasure to be escorted by the Sixty-ninth." Col. Duffy has issued a circular to the regiment conveying the thanks of the President and notifying the men that they will escort the regiment to the Decoration Day parade.

RELATIVES SEARCH FOR JACOB LEWIS.

JACOB LEWIS. Disappeared in February, Leaving Message "Help Me Before I Die."

"Help! Help me before I die!" is the message conveyed by a postal to Robert Lewis, of No. 404 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn, on Feb. 16 last from his son Jacob. The letter was written from the Salvation Army hotel, in Chatham Square; but before any relative reached him Lewis had disappeared. His wife and three children live at No. 138 Covert street, East New York, and have appealed to The Evening World to help them find the missing man. Lewis is described as five feet five inches, weight 130 pounds, rather bald, with dark brown hair and sandy mustache. He was formerly a guard on the Brooklyn elevated road, and later worked in Jamaica. His relatives have searched the hospitals and morgue records unsuccessfully. Lewis also went under the name of James Carpenter.

NOVEL-READING BOYS RUN AWAY

Determined to Become Detectives, Two Lads Quit Home—Girls Beg in Vain to Share Their Trip of Adventures.

Two little runaway boys from Seaforth, L. I., are being searched for by the police of New York and surrounding cities. They are Louis Roseau, fifteen years old, son of Mrs. Louis Ketcham, and Frederick Steck, thirteen years old, son of Mrs. Emma Steck.

The lads disappeared Sunday afternoon last with the announced intention of going forth into the world and becoming famous detectives. After going to Sunday-school they went to a baseball game. At its close they walked to the Long Island Railroad station at Massapequa, accompanied by several little girls, who begged to be allowed to share in their trip of adventure. This request was refused.

The boys paid their passage to Roosevelt with a $5 bill, which young Roseau had got from his mother. There they were seen by L. W. Taft, of No. 82 Nassau street, who knew them. There has been no other report of the wanderings of the runaways.

The mothers of the boys attribute their desire to wander to the reading of five-cent novels.

DETECTIVE ACTS AS UNDERTAKER

Assumes Role and Arrests Two Men—One Tried to Borrow Money While Making Bogus Funeral Arrangements.

Detective John Butler, of the Fifth street station, played the part of an undertaker so successfully yesterday afternoon that he was able to arraign in the Yorkville Court to-day before Magistrate McAvoy two prisoners whom he charged with attempting to obtain money under false pretenses. The prisoners were John F. Murphy, thirty-nine, of No. 330 Avenue A, and James O'Brien, forty, of No. 1436 Second avenue.

The two men went to Herman H. Kip's undertaking establishment at No. 138 First avenue yesterday afternoon. They had had recourse to their eyes, as if crying, and said to Assistant Schuch that the father of Murphy, Edward Murphy, was dead and the body was in the Morgue. They gave Schuch a piece of paper, the official record blank of the Department of Health, on the back of which was written:

"This is to certify that I want Herman H. Kip, undertaker, at No. 138 First avenue, to take care of my father's body."
JOHN F. MURPHY.
Schuch believed the man and started to arrange for getting the body. But it is alleged, Murphy said to him that they were rather short of ready money and as Kip had buried other members of the family he had better advance $5, which Murphy's mother would pay as soon as the undertakers went to the house.

Schuch became suspicious. He went to an outside telephone and called up the Morgue. He found there was nobody there as described. He then telephoned the Fifth street station, and Detective Butler soon arrived.

"Here's Mr. Kip now," Schuch said to the men, "he will fix things with you."
"I know you," Murphy is alleged to have said, "you buried the whole family."

"Yes," Butler answered, "I look out for your family."

"Yes, you buried my mother's sister and I suppose you will bury me some time."

"Perhaps I will," Butler said, and then he ordered Schuch to hurry in getting the wagon ready.
"By the way," Murphy is alleged to have said, "you might as well give me $10 instead of $5. I asked your assistant for the $5, but $9 will be better. My mother will pay you as soon as you get to the house."

Butler then displayed his detective's shield and arrested the two men.

YOUNG MAN THREW TAINTED CASH AWAY IN BROADWAY.

But When Taken to Court Chicagoan Said He Was Just a Little Silly.

A young man walked out of the Broadway Central Hotel early to-day and pulling a wad of bills from his pockets threw them down on the car tracks and began jumping on them.
"Take 'em away!" he shouted. "Destroy 'em! They're tainted! I won't have anything more to do with tainted money!"

A crowd soon assembled and a wild scramble for the tainted bills was in progress when Policeman Watts appeared and arrested the young man. He gave his name as Charles Leighton and said his home was in Chicago. In court to-day he had changed his mind about the quality of his money.

"It was just a little silly," he explained to Magistrate Mori. "I had seen a little too much of Broadway. He was fined $5, which he paid from the remnant of his 'tainted' roll."

The Effect of Alveolar Dentistry on Mrs. Evans.

When Many Prominent Dentists Had Given Her Up; When Professors of Dentistry in Colleges Said She Would Have to Wear a Set of False Teeth Through Life; When Naught but Lifelong Discomfort Seemed in Store for Her, Dr. Martin Began Treating Her by His Alveolar Method, and Mrs. Evans Now Has Two Rows of as Pretty and Useful Teeth as Any One, and No Plate or Bridgework Holds Them in Place.

Read Every Word of Mrs. Evans's Sworn Testimony and Call or Send to Dr. Martin for a More Detailed Statement.

The public has expressed such vital interest in Dr. G. Gordon Martin and his alveolar method of dentistry, and so many hundreds called and written for specific information of actual results, that it is a pleasure to present the sworn testimony of Mrs. Bella Evans.

The doctor has an almost endless array of similar evidence, but Mrs. Evans's is presented because she it was on whom the demonstration of the University Dental School was made. The curiosity of that portion of the public that is in urgent need of skillful dental work has been so thoroughly aroused that the presentation of the actual facts will clinch Dr. Martin's claim to have originated a system of dentistry that does away with wearing a plate of false teeth, bridgework, makes loose and falling teeth sound as in youth and cures all diseases of the gums, including pyorrhea. So long as a person has two or more teeth on the upper or the lower set, whether they are loose or not, there is positively no reason for wearing a plate of false teeth. The least any one can do who is in such a predicament is to call or write Dr. Martin and have him explain his system, and this surely will not put you under any obligations. If the doctor convinces you it is reasonable to suppose you will have the work done by him; if he fails to convince you, that ends the matter. The facts, however, are that Dr. Martin has to-day made in any other single dentist has ever had and the cases that come to him are from the simplest to the most difficult kind.

The Metamorphosis of Mrs. Evans. The many friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Evans, who knew her before she began treatment with Dr. Martin, will bear out the truth of her testimony when they compare the lady of to-day with the lady of a year ago. Mrs. Evans, in grateful reciprocation, is not only glad to bring her case to the notice of the public, but she will personally reply to any letters of inquiry or to personal calls. Here is a reproduction of her statement, duly sworn to:

New York City, May 8, 1905.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—
My name is Mrs. Bella Evans. I was a resident of Chicago continuously for ten years. I now live at the Hotel Martha, Washington, 29 E. 29th St. About three years ago I had my upper teeth treated, and the usual form of bridge work was used. In less than two years this bridge work loosened and wrecked every good tooth and I was compelled to have the bridge work removed. For about one year I had much trouble with the upper half of my mouth. Seven of my teeth were gone entirely, and seven were extremely loose. I suffered intensely with pyorrhea. This was about October 15, 1903. About that time I visited the Northwestern Dental College and inquired what could be done with my teeth. I suffered greatly with pyorrhea, and the remaining seven teeth in my upper jaw were so loose that I knew that I could have pulled them out with my fingers. The dentists at the Northwestern Dental College, including Dr. Black, the Dean, examined my mouth and told me that there could be nothing done; that they could give me no relief except to take out the entire set of teeth and have a new set made to wait six months or a year at which time a plate could be put in. Two days later, by request, I called at the Northwestern Dental College, where I was told by those in charge that there was a Dr. Martin there who claimed he could tighten loose teeth and cure pyorrhea; and they asked me if I would allow him to experiment on my teeth. They said they did not have any faith in Dr. Martin's claim, but as I had to lose my teeth anyway, it could do no harm to let Dr. Martin try his method. I finally consented. About the 18th or 20th of October, 1903, Dr. G. Gordon Martin, in the presence of a number of prominent dentists, including professors and students of the Northwestern Dental College, began his work on my mouth. He completed his work about the 25th or 27th of October, 1903, with the following results:

1. He did not remove or extract a single tooth, but saved all of the teeth.
2. He tightened the entire seven loose teeth so that they are to-day as sound and firm as they ever were in my life.
3. He cured the pyorrhea. To-day there is not the least sign of such a disease and my mouth and gums and upper jaw are in a perfectly healthy condition.
4. He supplied and put in place in my upper jaw all the missing teeth, seven in number, so that to-day I have fourteen upper teeth without any plate, and all are firm, tight and perfect.
5. I find no inconvenience, no tenderness, no trouble whatever; the work and the results are perfect and I am simply a delighted woman.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this eighth day of May, 1905.
Notary Public

If you who read this have trouble with your teeth or gums, and have been unable to find relief, go to Dr. Martin, and he will prove to you that you cannot only be relieved, but positively cured permanently. No matter what difficulties your case presents, if you are in earnest in wanting to better your condition, let him at least examine you. It is entirely immaterial how many dentists and professors of colleges have told you that your case is hopeless; you should not rest satisfied until you have consulted Dr. Martin, and this neither obligates you nor costs anything. All other dentists but Dr. Martin use one method in common, so that when one tells you you are hopeless another naturally tells you the same thing, too. But Dr. Martin, as you must know, has a method entirely his own, and as a small evidence of its genuine worth, we ask you to again read the actual experience of Mrs. Evans, written after actual experience.

A Few Suggestions.

DOES DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION BOTHER YOU?
Do you know what it is to enjoy a good meal? Do you know what it is to feel like a king? Digestion is one of the most complex functions of the human body, yet it is, too, the most simple. Digestion is simply the conversion of food into a liquid form, when your system is overworked or run down, Real Dyspepsia Tablets, which are really a digestive, will not only readily set things right. First, the gastric juices increase secretion of gastric juices and saturate the food and stop fermentation. Then, digestion goes on naturally—that's the whole secret. ## Decorating Homes For Decoration Day

DECORATION DAY is so near one can feel the spirit it breathes—when the whole Nation does honor to the glorious past in honoring those whose lives bought the glory of yesterday and to-day.

It is a privilege to commemorate with flowers and flags the deeds of our soldier fathers and forefathers. It is a privilege, too, for a business establishment to recall that it has lived through all the battles of the Republic since 1807.

Even before the Civil War—yes, before the War of 1812—the present house of Cowperthwait & Sons had established itself warmly in the estimation of the good and patriotic citizens of New York.

It was the favorite shopping place then as now for "Everything for Housekeeping," and is still run with the same broad, honest policy that commands the respect and patronage of the city.

Always abreast of the period, as the standard of goods has developed, it to-day presents the finest assortments in the country—with all that long experience behind it in buying and manufacturing, the benefit of which you get.

Decorate for the glorious past—and decorate for the glorious, living present, by making your homes beautiful and comfortable.
